

CityLife Church Knox

Major refurbishment of the CityLife Church located in Melbourne. CityLife Church, formerly known as Waverley Christian Fellowship, is a non-denominational megachurch.

Kane Constructions was appointed as head contractor in early 2003 to undertake a significant expansion of the existing facility including renovations to the main auditorium, offices, function rooms and associated areas, and extensions to Childcare building. The facade was also replaced.

Working with project managers Sweett Group and architects Williams Ross, the $7 million project was completed in 2004 having been delivered under a lump sum contract.
